EASTER RACING PROSPECTS

DUPLEX AND THE PANTHER FAVOURED FOR THE SECOND VALLEY STAKES

FIVE FURLONG RECORD FOR AUSTRALIANS DUE TO BE LOWERED

SITTING BULL'S BIG TASK IN TO-MORROW'S MAIN EVENT

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The Easter Race Meeting which commences to-morrow at Happy Valley promises to be quite up to the usual standard and in view of the fact that the new subscription griffins will be racing for the first time, there is sure to be a very large attendance. Duplex and The Panther are the favourites for the Valley Stakes while in the five furlongs sprint for Australians it is quite possible that a new record will be established. The record holder, Rosy Morn, will be there to defend his title. Sitting Bull, Mrs. Dunbar's long distance candidate will have a very hard job in front of him in the Shek Pai Handicap for "A" Class as some very good candidates are in the race.

FIRST RACE EXCEPTIONALLY OPEN

Seldom has there been a more open race than the first race on the card which is for "B" Class ponies over a mile and 171 yards. Champagne Bay and Daylight Eve, I hear, are both not starting and in their absence any of the remaining sixteen entries might spring a surprise. After his excellent run in the first race, Navy Hall at 148 pounds looks a very good thing for this event and should be the biggest danger to Valorous, who I fancy will be made favourite. These two ponies should be prominent all the way. Weybridge ran quite well the last time he started in the six furlongs race and might get into a place again. Some very good ponies are in at very light weights and an odd ticket of any of them might prove profitable.

Wachow Stakes.

Per Se, Double Face and Stourbridge should make a good race of it here and it would not surprise me to see them finish in that order. Per Se ran a very good race the last time he faced the starter and is sure to be favourite. Solar Star and King's Company are good long shots in this race.

St. Kilda Plate.

If there is one certainty in today's meeting, that pony is Portia in the St. Kilda Plate over the mile. Although Portia hasn't so far won a race, she has run second to Night Star in six furlongs to dead heat with Woodland Stag. On that form she should easily win to-morrow. Ngtuk and Ration are the others likely to fill the places.

Fathah Handicap.

This race over six furlongs for "C" Class ponies should see a big field and Wayward Stag with only 140 pounds to look after seem to me to be a likely winner. He will be up against Tenorio, also another speedster and Mignonne, which may upset calculations altogether. Brechin is now down to this class at 161 pounds, but unless he has improved considerably since his last appearance (and there is no reason to think he has done so) he will not trouble the favourites.

Second Wong Mei Chong Stakes.

For this race there will be at least a dozen starters and Mr. Needa's mount, De Minimis, having proved to be a reliable little sprinter, should get very near. Darion is another very good pony which might do well here. No-Fear, Mr. Heard's mount, may get into a place and Victor also looks a good thing for half a mile. The race is, however, quite open and if De Minimis fails, the dividend is going to be very handsome.

Shek Pai Handicap.

For the mile and half race the field will probably consist of Bag and Baggage (Mr. Heard), Hetman (Mr. Roza), King's Justice (Mr. Pan), Sadko (Mr. Needa), Sitting Bull (Mr. Frost) and possibly Gay Crusader (Mr. Proulx).

All these ponies have performed well this year, so the event is very open with the odds slightly in favour of Sitting Bull. Sadko and Hetman may fill the other places, though I have my doubts about Sadko over such a long distance.

The Second Valley Stakes.

The starters in this race include: Aden, Disorderly Conduct, Duplex,

SELECTIONS

Race 1. Valorous.
Navy Hall.
Weybridge.

Race 2. Per Se.
Double Face.
Stourbridge.

Race 3. Fortia.
Ngtuk.
Ration.

Race 4. Wayward Stag.
Tenorio.
Mignonne.

Race 5. De Minimis.
Victor.
Darion.

Race 6. Sitting Bull.
Hetman.
Sadko.

Race 7. Duplex.
The Panther.
Vigilance.

Race 8. King Salmon.
Amoy.
Warrington.

Race 9. Polar Star.
Rosy Morn.
Wotin.

Race 10. Jack O'Lantern.
Charming Face.
White Butterfly.

Race 11. Whoopes.
Black Velvet.
The Crook.

Funny Face, Gay Butterfly, Gold Age, Good Sport, Now's the Time, The Panther and Vigilance. For the present The Panther and Duplex, to be ridden by Messrs. Frost and Needa, seem to be all the rage and these two ponies do appear to be the pick of the bunch with Vigilance and Gold Age next. However, the race is so open that readers may be sure that the draw will have much to do with the result and it would not be a bad idea to back whatever you fancy that have drawn a good place. Duplex and The Panther are both in tip-top condition and if one had to choose between them, the choice should fall on Duplex.

"Swatow" Handicap.

This mile and a quarter event for "D" Class ponies will provide King Salmon and Amoy with a return match, and as the distance is slightly longer this time King Salmon ought to be able to get the better of the argument. Warrington is a danger here although he is conceding a few pounds to each of two ponies named Golden Dragon, Jingle, Burgomaster and Mistletoe are all good outsiders to follow here.

SECRETS OF YOUTH

THE only subject that is taboo to-day, when every one calls a spade a spade, is "Old Age." After the age of thirty, a woman will tell you she does not make a secret of her age as she used to, so, after thirty the modern woman will tell you she is forty years young, fifty years young, and so on.

To acquire youth one must not only visit beauty parlours or use creams and lotions, not only study the right colours to wear, not only keep one's body healthy, not only fast occasionally — but always think correctly. What you think matters as much as what you do.

Nothing makes a face so lovely, a step so elastic, the whole body so young as love and happiness. Give and accept all the love you can, especially to and from children.

"Give all the happiness you can, accept all the happiness."

If you see happiness do not center all round the field to catch it; no, take a quick, short cut across.

Do not fluster. A flusterer never achieves much. Repeat to yourself when beginning something: "I am not in a hurry. I have time to do this or that. I must not hurry; what I have to do I must do well."

Then believe in your personal power, even if the odds are all against you.

Train your brain to think on happiness, on love, never on hate or mistrust.

Develop a keen sense of humour and a great sense of beauty. Never be afraid of anything or anybody.

The only thing to be afraid of is fear. It brings unhealthy, unhappy thoughts, which are harbingers of wrinkles, sad, tired eyes, and bad-tempered mouths.

Educate yourselves to keep calm even in the most difficult circumstances. Acquire confidence in yourself and you will then have acquired perpetual youth.

"WILL O' THE WISP"

A new style has been evolved by the Hairdressing Fashions Committee. It is called "Will o' Wisp," possibly because novel fringes are the chief characteristics. These ornamental additions are to be much more extensive than fringes of the recent past, as they softened cheeks, neck, and temples, so that the entire head will be framed in upturned ringlets. The rest of the coiffure is very like the familiar shingle, except that it is waved right down to the nape of the neck, thus giving an elegant finish to the whole. For evening wear it is suggested that the front of the head should be improved with lacquer—a substance which keeps the most wayward locks in rigid position as well as supplying colour to the whole. As a rule, the substance has to be dissolved with spirit when festivities are over, but it will soon be possible to get a lacquer which can be combed out.

SUMMER HATS

Having exhausted their resources with regard to spring hats, London milliners are now exhibiting summer ones, and one of this afternoon's shows brought glad tidings. Creations with adequate brims are fashionable once more. Although the endless procession of "lid" hats is still to the fore, coming months will favour large, light models made from patterned silk, and occasionally from cellophane. This last substance has risen to popularity very swiftly, and the two cellophane hats on view to-day received much attention. "Obe, in particular, hinted at practical use by having a silk crown and a giant transparent brim, appropriately coloured.

Round the Town

Seen this Week in Local Shops

There is really no excuse if we are not all very smart for Easter. The weather is more encouraging and the shops quite too terribly attractive. I wonder how big a rush there will be to-morrow to get a hat, shoes or frock at the very last minute. At all events the purchases of any of them will be pleasant and easy with the big stocks that have arrived with the last few days.

The new frocks at the Dolly Vardon Hat Shop are delicious. Ruffles and puffed sleeves figure on a lot of them often both are of organic. By the way that puffed sleeve problem has been solved, you need not suffer either the discomfort of a tight elastic or the discomfort of a puff that has slipped down and come "unpuffed." The newest frocks have the sleeve edge gathered to a lining, result a perfect deep puff and perfect comfort.

There is another new material, cotton with a rough tweed weave, it is most attractive especially in a lovely tangerine shade. Green is good this spring. I saw several green frocks in art silk, the new soft pique and in printed cottons. You will enjoy looking at the Dolly Vardon's new frocks. Every one is pretty, and there seems to be an unusually wide variety of styles to choose from.

For wear with your new dresses you really ought to go to Gordon's for your shoes. If you choose one of the gay little tub frocks that Eve or Dolly Vardon are showing you can't do better than to get a pair of Gordon's delightful, semi-sandals in striped linen or in a combination of coloured kid and linen. For the more tailored style of cottons or silks nothing could be better than a pair of shoes in plaited kid. They are so cool and comfortable in wear and always make the feet look "finished" and look smart and good themselves.

If you are choosing a more formal silk, chiffon or voile dress you will want a pair of well cut kid or silk shoes to wear with it, which you will find easily at the same delightful shoe shop.

Gordon's shoes don't really need my praise, they stand on their own merits, but it would be ungrateful not to praise them none the less, for every one of my most treasured pairs comes from there, and when you get shoes that are comfy from the first wearing, always look well and wear them with a sense of pride, you can't do better than go to Gordon's to buy their shoes at the same place!

Lane, Crawford's are showing some very pretty voile frocks this week which are really very inexpensive costing as they do about $25 to $30, and I was delighted to see that they also had a collection of low priced hats to go with them. These dresses are not intended for formal afternoon wear, but there are some among them which with the assistance of a nice silk slip could be worn anywhere. In fact as my small daughter said of one I bought: "Even the Queen couldn't have a prettier frock than that could she mummy!"—and six years old is critical as mothers know!

Eve is having a spring sale of cotton, art silk and silk frocks, which are very considerably marked down. The very special bargains are a few delicate dresses, some of them with a matching coat or cape, which are priced at $25.00. If you are going on leave this spring you could not do better than to have one of these little frocks of light wool for wear during the latter part of the voyage when the days begin to get cooler.

The cotton and art silk frocks are marked from $18.00 and are real bargains. They are new stock and specially reduced in price for a quick sale. Some charming silk dresses originally in the $40 to $50 region have been marked down to $25.

I noticed, too, that Eve has just unpacked a number of large simple hats of burnt straw which are extremely reasonable in price. Nothing could be prettier with a cotton or silk summer frock.

London Fashion Notes

Our air-mail letter to women

London March 28th.

Tilt of the Hat

Berets like acorn cups set flat on top of the head, are the latest form of headgear. The woman not so young may keep her berets, however, and look attractive in them if she wears them with only a slight tilt to one side. Hats need this tilt also, the shape being first pulled on well over the nose. The effect is much more charming than the startled look which the pushed off the face hat has given to women for so long.

The Hooded Homburg

This is one of the smartest things of the season. The shape starts life as a hood, with kinks and dents to narrow and heighten a soft crown. The brim is left straight and similar to the masculine variety though perhaps narrower at the sides. The only trimming is a contrasting one inch band of petersham ribbon. A grey-blue felt had a navy ribbon, a beige a dark brown, white with black and peach with Seville blue managed to strike the most becoming of novel shapes.

Straw Hats

Fine and coarse straws are used for the Easter holidays. Some have a dull surface; others are shiny. As an alternative to straw models there are hats made from Angora to match the new suits. They are soft and uncrushable.

Transparent Hats

Transparent sun-bathing hats and sunshades have been devised that keep out the red rays while admitting the ultra-violet ones. They are in a fireproof material similar to cellophane; the hats are shaped on the lines of the Welsh national hat with high crowns but wider brims. Oblong sunshades fitted at an angle to the handle are being designed in cotton and to welling to enable one to read in comfort.

Beach Fashions

For sunbathing there are entirely backless jumpers, tied on at the waist and neck, for wear with trousers.

Sleeves

Sleeves or no sleeves for the evening is the problem. One night one sees nothing but large and important sleeves, and on another there is not a sleeve to be seen. Flower sleeves are most attractive. One model had white hyacinths massed in a band three or four inches deep which drooped below the shoulder top. They were apparently mounted on some of the pale blue crepe material of which the rest of the dress was composed.

Blue in the Evening

Pale blue satin, shiny or dull, and black varnished satin are now the evening fashion. It may be worn with a velvet wrap, geminum red, or deep night blue, or white, grey, or brown fur.

Smart Suitings

The smartest suits will be those in discreet and sober styles and shades. Fabrics of a "horsey" type are correct for country wear. With a rough brown homespun well-cut coat and skirt, and cream wool sweater, there can be added a heavy checked cream and brown cape, with stitched collar of its own. This can be single or double breasted but the cape sleeves must be left free. The three-quarter top-cape-coat is a good model for the course, as it can be added to the suit towards the close of an early spring day. The fashionable spring colours are Grey, the pumice shade, brown, beige and navy. But novelty fabrics in checks, stripes and corrugated surfaces, add to a multi-colour collection.

Another reinstated fashioned is woollen gloves. Genuine knitted ones in vivid shades of green, blue, red or yellow. A matching scarf and knitted hat.

Crisp Effects

Crisp effects are half the chic of our new clothes. When it isn't net or organdie or that more fragile cousin of organdie—organza—it is tulle. We take to get our effects with Tulle. Tulle has come back for scarves. Big bows are being used in Paris to add colour and liveliness to plain little dresses. There are some ravishing new combinations of colour in tulle and net, of which the class probably never knew.

The fez is now among the most firmly established features of the new mode and will probably become one of those things that mark an epoch. It is all part of the new ambition to appear tall, to do everything we can to exaggerate a vertical look, and in some mysterious way this extra inch or two on your head seems to produce that long-necked effect even if you are not actually swan-like.

Black and Accessories

If you are one of those crafty clothes-wise people who demand first of all in their wardrobe a well-cut plain black crepe frock and then spend blissful hours thinking up delicious little accessories to go with it, you will be more than interested in an idea seen at the Lachasse show of London models. With a simple crepe afternoon dress was worn the most charming pair of black suede gloves that had a double frill of black organdie flaring back at the wrist to match a black organdie collar on the frock. With this you get all the frothy and frilly effect of the organdie without the fuss of white, and something in which to look entirely different.

The Swagger Jacket

The latest model in jackets well deserves its name. It is a dashing style with youth and gaiety in every line. Accessories too are in the same spirit. The jockey cap accords to perfection with the swing of the jacket and the matching gauntlets of natural linen crash. These are washable. Fashion has gone green for the Spring. There are other colours to choose from—beige is one of them. But in daytime clothes whether three piece suits, afternoon gowns or sports outfits, green crops up again. Fashion is much kinder this year to the larger woman, for there is nothing dowdy about a smart plaid silk crepe de Chine afternoon frock designed for 44 and 48 hips. The bodice has a folded cowl neckline finished with pompons and folds of georgette to match the contrasting stripes of the plaid, and the sleeves have the smartest elbow puffs. For wear with this there is a wool georgette coat, finely tucked across the georgette coat, lined with crepe, and provided with a collar of fox fur.

The Feather Boa

The feather boa of last season has had some interesting successors. There is the ruche of spotted black tulle, very feminine and fussy and extremely charming which many women are wearing to accompany spring hats trimmed with the same tulle. And now there is the ruche tarlatan boa, a huge affair, looking very Edwardian worn with a flaring black tarlatan evening dress over white tulle.

The sandwich scarf is an innovation of only the last few weeks but it seems to have a definite future before it. It begins with a double strip of softly woven natural coloured linen, in herringbone pattern, that new-old material which has been awarded all the highest diplomas of chic this season. The folded strip of linen is a few inches wide anything from a yard to a half-yard long, and hemmed narrowly all round. Inside it are stitched, along part of one side only, strips of brightly coloured crepe de Chine of exactly the same length and width. You can do almost everything with this scarf, fold it, knot it, tie it, turn it one colour or another, tie all the ends singly in part little knots under your chin or your ear, pin them down altogether, or leave them fluttering as a collection of little ends.

A SCENT BOTTLE STOPPER

Sometimes the glass stopper of a new bottle of perfume is difficult to unscrew. Tapping the stopper sharply against something hard may prove effective, but there is always a danger of the bottle splintering in the hands and the perfume being lost. The most successful method is to stand the glass bottle in a bowl of fairly hot water so that the water rises to about two-thirds of the depth of the bottle. Dab a little oil round the neck where the stopper and bottle join. Leave it for four or five minutes in the water, and then turn the stopper sharply. It will be found that it unscrews easily afterwards.

Prints are Popular

Prints have a definite place in the fabrics for spring and summer, and there is a greater variety than ever of designs and materials. Most of the prints are on smooth flat crepes or on a moderately crinkled material, but some are deeply ridged or corrugated. Stripes of varying widths, spots, and squares are all used for dark silks printed on white, and finely traced mosaic and flower designs in white give a summerlike effect on green and coral grounds. Checks and plaids are plentiful, and there are gay multi-coloured flower designs on dark grounds.

Printed silk will be seen in blouses worn with dark and neutral coloured tailored suits, for neck and sleeve details to lighten dark silk dresses, and for hats in the same print as a dress or blouse. Small all-over floral patterns look well for town wear with patent-leather and circ accessories.

Prints retain their popularity for the evening, especially in rather large floral designs on smooth crepes in many colourings. Tulle fetas is one of the most successful of the spring fabrics, especially for evening, when it is seen almost always in large check and plaid designs, in pastel colourings. Tulle-tas will also be used for millinery, and a stitched hat with matching tulle-tas scarf tied in a large bow looks fresh and springlike.

Cotton organdies woven with crepe-like or blistered effects, and cotton voiles with shadowy floral designs, mounted over tulle-tas slips, make fresh and youthful evening gowns. Circ chiffon net and lace still remain popular in black and vivid colours, but circ satin is now more often a contrasting trimming on a dress of dull material.

Silk organdie, dull and lacquered, looks well in the evening, and may be obtained in floral designs as well as large checks and plaids. Evening gowns made of these crisp diaphanous materials are cut in long sweeping lines very wide at the hem. The effect of extra width is achieved by a frill of tulle-tas or stiffened chiffon at the hem of the slip, or even a fine horsehair band.

The high neckline and wide shoulder effect are as much part of evening dress as of day, and little capes and jackets accompany many of the evening gowns. These are made of tulle, plain and sequined, of organdie or stiffened chiffon; all have big sleeves or large shoulder ruffles. Circ satin is a good material for these wraps and there are little evening tailored coats of linen and pique. Evening wraps may be waist or finger-tip length. Faille, tulle-tas, and circ satin are used for the former, but velvet and matelassé crêpes look better for longer coats.

FASHION PIRATES TO BE FOUGHT

West-End Declares War

MODELS COPYRIGHT

In view of London's growing importance as a creative fashion centre, war was declared last month in the West-end on the dress pirates who copy the designs of exclusive models and sell them for half the price.

An intensive battle has long been waged in Paris to exterminate the fashion thieves there, but this is the first time that it has been considered necessary for London fashion creators to show a united front to the common foe. Incidentally, it is evidence of the success of the present Spring collections.

From his exclusive salons in Grosvenor-street, the man who has been in the Paris campaigns Captain Molyneux, is now directing the London offensive.

"We are hoping that the other West-end designers will back us up, as it is spoiling trade," he said. "We have had flagrant cases of customers who, having paid large prices for dresses, saw them copied in a neighbouring street for half the price."

"A few models have been copyrighted for purposes of experiment, but we are told at the Patent Office that each model is copyrighted without being specially registered. We shall write in a friendly way to transgressors, but if they persist in showing the pirated design we shall then proceed against them."

Willow Figures.

The willow figure was launched at a recent dress parade. Length and still greater slenderness were a feature of every model. Frocks for day wear are only 6in. off the ground (a drop of 4in. on last year's lengths), while additional length for evening gowns, which were already on the ground, is provided by trains.

The nearest approach to the hobble skirt since the war has been achieved. Hips are cut as fine as possible, and gowns are as tight all the way down as it is possible to make them without restricting freedom.

LOOK TWICE AT THAT SHIRT

The first casual glance, when you are not the least little bit "shirt-minded," so to speak, tells your sub-conscious brain that that necessary piece of man's wear is out of the ordinary. You look again. It is. It's an article of very definite attraction. It's distinctive yet essentially within the bounds of style and artistry; it belongs to the wearer, in more ways than one. There is a personality about that shirt, a smartness, a well, it looks good. The wearer is clearly a man of judgment and character; his whole appearance is in harmony with that happy faculty that tells him a Viyella shirt is "correct."

There's not only style and elegance there, but true comfort. Viyella absorbs moisture only to radiate it; the colours are wash-proof and sun-proof; its fabric quite unshrinkable; and its designs are London's latest.

There is no material quite the same as Viyella—none that even fussy men or particular wives will so readily "O.K."

Hints about Baby

EACH meal for Baby should be freshly prepared and given at a temperature of about 100°F. Use a Feeder that can be easily and efficiently cleaned. Never give Baby a "Comforter" which infects the mouth with germs, and spoils its shape.

The Food must be conveyed into Baby's mouth without fear of germ contamination and at a proper rate of flow.

EASTER HOLIDAY
CRUISES

INNOVATION BY SHANGHAI
SHIPPING COMPANIES

Following the fashionable and generally popular trend of sea cruises provided by leading shipping lines, Messrs. Butterfield and Swire and Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd. have taken advantage of the approaching Easter holidays to offer the public the opportunity of short cruises either to the river port of Nanking or the seaports of Ningpo and Tsingtao.

These ports have been selected by reason of their convenient distances from Shanghai, and the public have a choice of a river or sea trip. Although principally designed as a cruise or round trip, passengers may stop-over at any of the ports of call without any increase in the fares. A further convenience is that the tickets of these two lines are interchangeable at their agencies at all ports and on board any of their vessels. As is well-known, these companies provide an excellent table and an extensive choice of wines, mineral waters, etc.

The round trip fare from Shanghai to Nanking is $50 inclusive of meals on board ship during the few hours stay at Nanking and the transfer to the downbound vessel.
Passengers staying over at Nanking,
have the choice of subsequent daily
sailings offered by either the China
Navigation or Indo-China S.N. Co.,
Ltd.

The return fare to Tsingtao is $110, and as advantage would no doubt be taken by the passenger to visit the several points of interests at this lovely seaside resort, an ample selection of sailings is offered to allow of passengers making their own arrangements according to the time at their disposal.

Messrs. Butterfield and Swire alone offer a round trip to Ningpo for $21 and they have included this brief cruise of two days in order to provide at least a "break" to those who feel they need it.

There is an alternative, by taking a single ticket to Ningpo (fare $12), and returning by train, bus, train via Hangchow. For full particulars of bus and rail fares,

"ROBBERS' ROOST"

ZANE GREY FILM OF THE SOUTH WEST

Librarians say that Zane Grey's novels are more in demand than any other books on their shelves. Publishers, however, reveal the even more interesting fact that during the past fifteen years, Grey's works have outsold all other books with the exception of the Bible.

The vivid portraits that this author paints of the romantic days of the South-west, his gripping plots and colorful characters, are largely responsible for the tremendous popularity of his novels. These qualities, too, lend themselves notably to screen purposes, and his work is eagerly snapped up by film producers as fast as he can turn it out.

One of his most successful stories, which was serialized in a national weekly before its publication in book form, is "Robbers' Roost," a realistic tale of cattle rustlers in Arizona. Fox films executives recognized the volume as an ideal vehicle for George O'Brien, who holds the distinction of being the most popular of all Western screen actors. The picture version of this thrilling novel is now showing at the King's Theatre.

Maureen O'Sullivan has the feminine lead in the production, which was directed by Louis King. The cast includes Maude Eburne, William Pawley, Reginald Owen and Walter McGrail. Filmed largely at the actual local of the Grey story, the film is said to be one of the most entertaining of all O'Brien productions.

"SAY IT WITH MUSIC"STORY OF HIGH-BROW AND LOW-BROW MUSIC

"Say it with Music" the latest British and Dominions film is now showing at the Central Theatre for the last time to-day. It concerns the fortunes of Philip Weston, a composer who fails to write the music popular to-day, and therefore is practically destitute.

His little girl, Betty, not realising her father's ideals in regard to music, happily admits she prefers Jack Payne and his band!

Weston takes his latest composition to a hard-headed publisher, who advises him to give up writing such "stuff" and points out of the window to the great sign outside a theatre advertising Jack Payne and his band. "Write music that he will play and I'll publish it," he states.

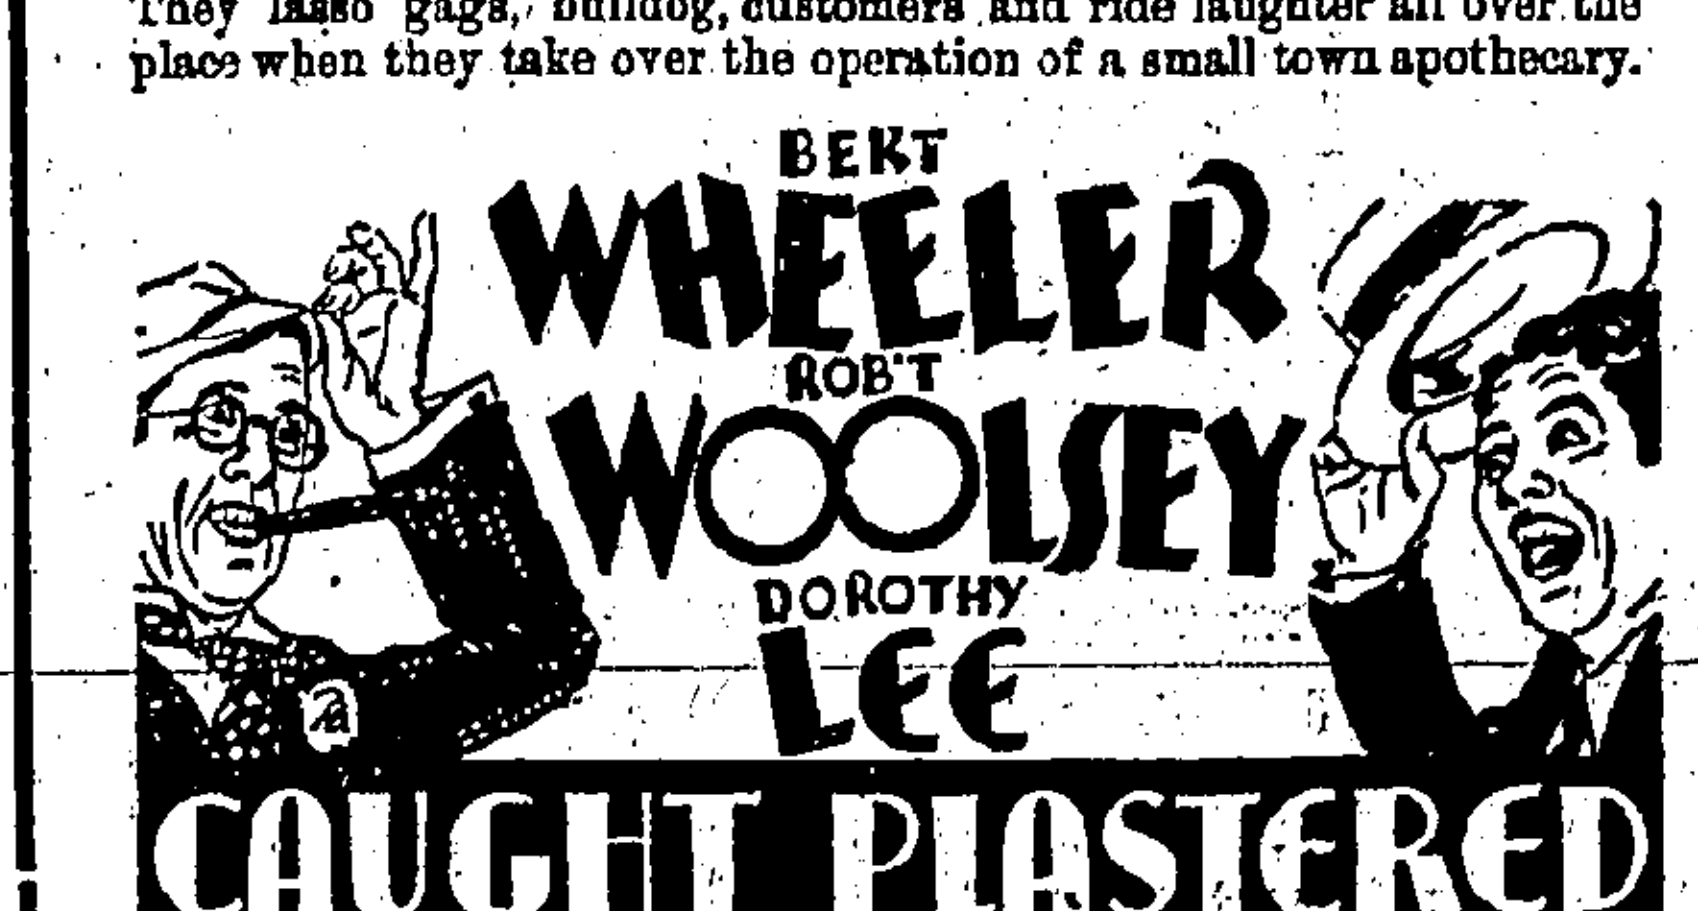

Hungry and disheartened Weston unseeing steps in front of a car and is knocked down, but not seriously hurt. The owner picks him up and then greets the startled

Weston as an old friend. The accident occurs outside the stage door of a theatre, and the unrecognised friend, after introducing himself as "Jack Payne" takes him into his dressing-room. It is only after incidents that happened during the war are discussed that Weston realises Payne was a fellow-officer in the Air Force. How Payne brings fame to Weston makes a sentimental, but wholly successful background for exploiting the popular band.

"THE MUMMY"

"QUEER" DRAMA AT CENTRAL

A sight never before seen on the screen!

You'll see the strangest, most thrilling breath-taking sight you have ever imagined in our next picture—Universal's sensational film, "The Mummy," showing at the Central Theatre on Saturday.

A mummy—3700 years old—comes to life before your eyes to start the strangest drama of reincarnation and love that persists through the ages! Prepare now for a great screen experience. Universal producer of "Frankenstein," "Dracula," "Phantom of the Opera" and others, brings to this theatre its supreme achievement in the mystic and occult—"The Mummy" starring Karloff in a role that shatters all records for sheer thrill and uncanny power!

You'll never forget this strange man out of the ancient past who loosed his mystic spells on the modern world who claimed his love after centuries, who threatened to sacrifice the happiness of two young lovers on the altar of an ancient passion. Karloff in the greatest picture of his career, with the alluring Zita Johann, handsome David Manners, Arthur Byron, Edward Van Sloan, Bramwell Fletcher, Noble Johnson, and a large cast.

Spectacular sets of ancient civilization, color, excitement, romance—"The Mummy" will live with you forever.

"THREE WISE GIRLS"

SMART PRODUCTION AT QUEEN'S

Scintillating, humorous, yet definitely dramatic, "Three Wise Girls," the Columbia comedy-drama now showing at the Queen's Theatre will prove to be a genuine entertainment film. A happy choice was made in the selection of "the three wise girls," Mae Clarke, Jean Harlow and Marie Prevost. Individually they contribute interesting performances; the combination of the three is superb. Jean Harlow is cast in a sympathetic role and demonstrates that she is ideally suited to it. This picture should help her erase the stigma of "bad parts."

The film relates the adventures of three girls in the big city. When Cassie Barnes comes to New York she teams up in an unpretentious apartment with Dot, a plain happy-go-lucky girl. In a time with an over-friendly boys, Cassie is be-friendly by Jerry Dexter, handsome and wealthy. They see each other often, and in time are deeply in love with one another.

Cassie gets a job as a model through her home-town friend, Gladys Kane, who is in love with Arthur Phelps, a banker and married. He maintains Gladys in grand style.

When Cassie learns that Jerry is married, she is advised by Gladys to give him up. Gladys does not want Cassie to fall into the sort of life she is leading. When Arthur Phelps effects a reconciliation with his wife, Gladys commits suicide. Cassie is so disillusioned with life in the big city that she returns to her home town. The picture ends happily, however. Jerry finally gets his wife to consent to a divorce and he comes to Cassie to claim her for his wife.

Excellent comedy is introduced in the amorous adventures between Marie Prevost, the Dot of the story, and Andy Davine.

Jean Harlow makes Cassie a convincing and likeable person. The model sequences give Jean ample opportunities to wear gorgeous clothes devastatingly. Mae Clarke, entrusted with the dramatic role of Gladys, again demonstrates that she is an actress with ability. Her excellent performances in "Front Page" and "Waterloo Bridge" were not chances... she is consistently good. Walter Byron handles the Jerry Dexter part capably; he is an interesting leading man—while Jameson Thomas is sufficiently suave as Arthur Phelps.

"The Young Marshal"

CHANG HSU LIANG PASSES THROUGH HONG KONG

In Command of 16 Divisions at the Age of Twenty-one

A SOLDIER NOT A POLITICIAN

Chang Hsu Liang, "The Young Marshal" as he is generally called, arrived in Hong Kong yesterday morning on board the Conte Rosso, in which ship he is sailing for Europe.

If he would consent to tell it what an amazing story Chang Hsu Liang could tell of his life. At the age of thirty-two he has held a position, which despite its difficulties most men of any age would envy. He has had enormous power and faced enormous difficulties. That his ideals are greater than his ambitions perhaps accounts for the fact that he is leaving China for an indeterminate period.

This young man with a gentle rather shy manner has been a soldier in the field since he was sixteen, and before he was twenty was in command of large bodies of troops. You would have taken him for an undergraduate of Hong Kong University had you seen him aboard the Conte Rosso yesterday, dressed in white duck trousers and a blue blazer, but he is travelling with two grown-up sons a daughter of fifteen and a little son of about 3 years old of whom he is obviously very fond. The young marshal was married our representative was told in the early teens.

George Bernard Shaw is not as we know prone to over-politeness.

He met Marshal Chang recently and flew over the Great Wall in the Marshal's aeroplane. When asked later what he thought of him G.B.S. said "Chang Hsu Liang is an intelligent man and a courteous gentleman" Praise indeed.

How one would like to get the young Marshal to talk; to tell one of those years of struggle when he took up the reins of the government of a vast province after the death of his father Chang Tso Lin. What an interesting story he would have to tell, of intrigue and counter-intrigue, of hopes, fears, struggle and fighting against desperate odds. But Chang Hsu Liang will not talk. He will not disclose whether he is leaving China for good: whether he feels that the time is not yet ripe to put his ideas into force or whether he is acknowledging defeat by leaving. He smiles when asked, says with a gesture of his hand, "will you please talk to Mr. Donald," and turns away holding the hand of his little son.

FRENCH AVIATRIX

Seven Hour Flight from Hanoi

Mlle. Maryse Hiltz, the young French aviatrix, who is on a flight from Paris to Japan arrived yesterday at Kai Tak at 6 p.m. having left Hanoi at 11.30 a.m.

Mlle. Hiltz circled twice round the aerodrome and after making a perfect landing was cordially greeted by Flight Lieutenant Moss, and representatives of the Local Oil Companies and members of the Press.

Mlle. Hiltz is a very charming and vivacious Frenchwoman, she was wearing an eminently "workmanlike" kit but with the traditional chic of her race.

Her sleeveless jersey was of the fashionable blue and white stripe design, and she was also wearing navy blue trousers of thick material, silk socks rolled down to her ankles and heavy suede leather shoes.

Mlle. Hiltz at once asked if she could speak to the French Consul and a call lasting some ten minutes was put through. She seemed not the least tired by her adventure and was soon being interviewed, through an interpreter, by the Press. Leaving Paris on April 1, she arrived in Hanoi after 36 hours and 20 minutes flying time. She left Hanoi at 11.30 a.m. yesterday and had an uneventful trip to Hong Kong, but low-lying clouds made visibility difficult.

Off To-day for Shanghai.

On asking about the weather report, and being told that it was favourable Mlle. Hiltz said that she wished to leave for Shanghai this morning at daylight. After the interview the aviatrix and her mechanic made a tour of the aerodrome, and expressed surprise at the completeness and up-to-date nature of the equipment.

Mlle. Hiltz's aeroplane is a Farman Gnomes Rhone. It is painted blue with the French tricolour near the tail.

his title is, "friend" would probably be the word—to the young marshal.

In conversation with our representative Mr. Donald said that Marshal Chang was just in charge of the head of the administration of his province when Chang Tso Lin was killed, by the elders of the province, but whenever he tried to put his progressive ideas into practice he found himself blocked by them.

Since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria Marshal Chang's position has been very difficult. He has had to contend with three forces, the elders of the provinces, the National Government and the Japanese. The Japanese tried bribery and then threats. The former had no effect, but the threats of what would be done if he joined the National Government drove him to fly the National flag. He adopted the non-resistance policy as being the only way in which he could get the support of the League of Nations.

Mr. Donald also told our representative that it was expected that Sir. Mussolini would meet the Conte Rosso at Brindisi and that the marshal and his family would travel with Count Chiano, the Italian Minister, and his wife, who is Mussolini's daughter, with II Duce to Rome.

A. S. C. CADRE'S SECOND ANNUAL DINNER

WARM WELCOME TO NEW MEMBERS: MAJOR MANNERS PRESIDES OVER LARGE GATHERING

SPIRIT OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP VERY EVIDENT

The spirit of good comradeship and conviviality was very much in evidence last night at the Sports Club with the Officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the A.S.C. Cadre, when the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, held their second annual dinner.

Happy speeches, songs and music all added to the success of the occasion. The opportunity was taken to extend a warm welcome to the large number of non-British residents in the Colony who have recently joined the Cadre.

Mr. Dick Barty, who recently returned to the Colony proved to be a very capable entertainer and the proceedings were carried on until almost midnight. Major C. M. Mannars presided over the proceedings.

LARGE GATHERING OF OFFICERS AND MEN

There was a large gathering of officers and men of the Volunteers present together with representatives of other military units, amongst them being Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., Col. L. G. Bird, D.S.O., O.B.E., Col. H.K. Watson, R.A.S.C., Lieut. Col. J. E. Fasken, M.C. R.A.S.C., Major H. B. L. Dowbiggin, O.B.E., Capt. D. K. Patterson, R.A.S.C., J. H. D. Faithful, R.A.S.C., W. H. Goster, D.S.O., M.C., C. White, R.A.S.C. (T), and Mr. O. Champkin, J.P.

"Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps."

Lieut. N. V. Halward, proposing the "Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps" said: It is a great honour for me to be asked to propose the health of the Corps. I happened to be standing in the Cathedral compound on Tuesday and saw part of the inspection. I think it was an extraordinarily good show. It was very fine to see Murray Parade Ground filled with members of the Volunteers Corps and it made me feel how much we owe to you sir, Col. Bird, and other members of the Corps for the encouragement and help you have given to the A.S.C. Cadre (Hear, Hear). We are very grateful indeed for that help and we hope on our part to be able to live up to the fine traditions and esprit de corps which belongs to the H.K.V.D.C. (Applause).

Responding, Col. Bird said: On behalf of the Volunteer Corps I thank you for the kind words you have said. The H.K.V.D.C.'s role as it name implies is to defend the Colony against outside aggression and internal commotion. Such a role must commend itself not only to the British community but to members of all other nationalities resident in this Colony (Hear Hear). Therefore I have much pleasure in welcoming to the Defence Corps the latest members of A.S.C. Cadres who are here present this evening. I feel sure your example will, be followed by other members of foreign nationalities in the near future. The unit they have joined is an uncomatant one but it will be one of very great importance in the time of crisis to the Colony because without your assistance the troops in the field would be without supplies. Therefore, although an uncomatant unit you are of very great importance to the defence of the Colony. On behalf of the Corps I thank you very much indeed for coming forward in the way you have done (Applause).

MR. C. CHAMPKIN

Mr. C. Champkin proposing the toast of the A. S. C. Cadre said:—We are all peace-loving citizens.

here—at least I hope so—and I am not therefore as uneasy as I might otherwise have been about proposing the toast of this evening—that of our hosts, the Army Service Corps Cadre of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps. Still, its a little embarrassing for me, after retiring into strictly civilian obscurity, to be called forth from my comfortable seclusion to speak about Major Mannars' excellent and efficient little force of auxiliaries. I feel, in fact, that I face you with much the same emotion that Wellington must have felt when, after reviewing the Irish Fusiliers before the Battle of Salamanca, he said "I don't know what affect these men will have upon the enemy, but by God they frighten me!" (Laughter.)

I hope therefore that, as I speak merely as a citizen of this no mean city, you who are Volunteers and those of your guests who are of the Regular Army will show me some indulgence if what I say falls short of what you feel is due to this enterprising unit that has made such remarkable progress under the energetic guidance of Major Mannars.

The A. S. C. Cadre has existed in its present form for little more than a year. At its inaugural dinner I remember that Major Mannars told us it was about forty strong. Since then it has gone steadily ahead and now numbers not far short of a hundred. This is no mean achievement, because enrolment is confined to ex-service men and men not eligible for service in the Active Units of the Volunteers. I think I know why Major Mannars has succeeded. He has realised that the failure of many a promising venture has been due to the apparent certainty of its partial success. He has never been satisfied with partial success, and because of that he has gone from strength to strength and when he tells me that he needs a hundred and fifty more men to complete his establishment I have little doubt that he will get them, (applause)—even if he has to have his Annual Dinner once a quarter. (Laughter.)

Our Vicarious Volunteers.

I know something of the difficulties with which he has had to contend and the patient determination with which he has overcome them. I don't want you to misunderstand me. I don't mean that it is at all hard to interest Hong Kong people in volunteering. I found it quite easy to interest them in my Anti-Aircraft Light Auto.

TO-DAY'S HOLIDAY

Very few people, even those who reserve Good Friday for a full day's sport, are able entirely to put out of mind the origin of this holiday. Equally does that apply to educated people not of the Christian faith, for the Founder of Christianity is more and more accepted the world over as the greatest figure in history, or, at least second only to the founder of the religion to which one belongs. The curious story is told—often if apocryphal, it is not insignificant—of the youngest son of CHANG TSO LIN, who said, on hearing of his father's assassination, "Christ may have been the best man in the world, but my father was the kindest." Few people to-day deny the facts of Good Friday—that a great Jewish teacher was executed by the Romans in Jerusalem during the reign of TIBERIUS CAESAR. The teaching is so profound, original and of such amazing vividness, and literary skill, that few would question that the sayings common to three of the records, and called by scholars Q Document, are authentic and derived from the contemporary record, "recorded by early tradition to St. Matthew." H. G. Wells, in the penetrating "exposition" of the personality and teachings of Christ contained in his "Outline of History," declares that the "four Gospels at least proclaim, 'Here is a man.' Though he rejects Easter, and the whole of the marvellous element, Mr. Wells will have none of the vague theory of 'Jesus a Myth.' The teaching itself has an apparent simplicity, a wisdom and yet a subtle profundity and hardness, quite beyond anything produced by either "a tradition" or "a school." Take, for example, the scanty but comprehensive treatment of sex—the source of vast and turgid libraries. What does it come to? Monogamy; indissolubility as an ideal, though permitting a latitude to the civil authority (symbolised by the name of MOSES the LAWGIVER) when social conditions are bad. Above all, a striking at the roots of immorality arising from the unnecessary stimulating of impulse. The deliberate contemplation of the act is classed with the net. The poet—thought, word, feasting of the eye are traced. "If thine eye offend thee, pluck it out"—or in other words, "you know where danger lies. Resist at the beginning." Again, the wise tolerance, even of the persistent offender is conveyed by subtly recorded acts and sentences. And yet there is nothing of the fierce and unnatural asceticism of many great teachers, Christian and non-Christian, but examples given of easy friendliness between men and women. Even in such details of the every-day life of the world, as the avoidance of litigation, and behaviour as a guest there are hints conveyed with light humour, and yet hitting straight to the heart. To WELLS we are also indebted for the picture of the lean, strenuous Teacher, marching rapidly up and down the mountainous countryside, appearing unexpectedly, and handling difficult mobs both of friends and enemies with astonishing skill and equanimity.

The greatest personalities give, or are perpetually ready to give, their lives for a cause. That is older than Christianity, and is contained in the multitudinous myths of the dying god. Because Christianity is in harmony, and not discord, with the myths of the world, which are the expression of the truths of nature in terms of gods and goddesses, or super-human beings, that is not to say Christianity is a myth. Rather it resembles the harmonies of structure revealed to-day by science, in biology, astronomy and geology, until as Sir JAMES JEANS tells us, scientists have come to recognise that the universe is designed by a mathematician, rigidly accurate and unlikely in the sphere of religion to put into human imagination amiable illusions, and pleasing superstitions, that are untrue in fact and do not bear serious investigation.

Medical science has since stated that fact from the knowledge that water and blood, came from the wound made later by the thrust of the soldier's spear. In the grave of the rich man they laid his body to rest. And there we leave the story until the morning of Easter Day, when He bare the hands of death, and rose victorious to reign. Is it nothing to you to-day all ye who pass by?

GOOD FRIDAY

To-day is Good Friday.

Little did those people who were alive on that Friday in the 17th year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar realize that the date was to become immortal.

Few realize that apart from the authenticated account in the four Gospels, there is definite historical proof of the Crucifixion. In the year 1810 the Commissioners of Arts of the French Army were excavating in the ancient town of Aquila, in Italy. One day they came upon an exquisite antique marble vase, covered on one side with Hebrew characters. When translated, it was found to be the "Death Warrant of Jesus Christ."

The Vase from Aquila.

The translation is as follows:—
"Sentence rendered by Pontius Pilate, Acting Governor of Lower Galilee, ordering that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death on the cross. 'In the year 17 of the Emperor Tiberius Caesar, and the 27th day of March, in the city of the Holy Jerusalem, Annas and Caiaphas being priests sacrificators of the people of God. Pontius Pilate, Governor of Lower Galilee, sitting in the presidential chair of the praetory, condemned Jesus of Nazareth to die on the cross between two thieves, the great and notorious evidence of the people being:—

1. Jesus is a seducer.
  2. He is a seditious.
  3. He is the enemy of law.
  4. He calls himself falsely the Son of God.
  5. He calls himself falsely the King of Israel.
  6. He entered into the Temple followed by a multitude bearing palm branches in their hands.
- "Orders the first centurion, Quilnius Cornelius to lead him to the place of execution."
"Forbids any person whatsoever, either rich or poor to oppose the death of Jesus."
"The witnesses who signed the condemnation of Jesus are:
1. Daniel Robani, a Pharisee.
2. Joannus Robani.
3. Raphael Robani.
4. Capet, a citizen."

"Jesus shall go out of the city of Jerusalem by the gate of—"

The words are engraved on a copper plate, on the reverse of which is the information "A similar plate is sent to each Tribe." But so far no other has been discovered.

The Trial of Jesus.

The Vase rests to-day in the Sanctuary of the Carthusians in Naples. The procedure adopted during the Trial of Christ has been examined by a Board of eminent Jurists, who gave it as their considered opinion that from beginning to end, the trial was a mockery of justice. Breach after breach of law—Roman and Jewish—was committed. The evidence was never properly examined. The only verdict that could have been given by any impartial tribunal was "not guilty" and consequent acquittal. The prisoner was not given a chance. Proud and fearless to the end He met His fate. From the Hall of Justice He was led along the road that His feet made sacred for the ages yet unborn to the Hill of Calvary, bearing the crosspiece of His Cross. There between the two thieves they nailed His suffering Body.

For three long weary hours He was hanging there; while the sun veiled its light, and darkness was over the face of the land. Seven times He spoke—seven words of love, that have come down to us, with all their wonder and pathos intensified with the passing of the ages.

First of all He spoke as a Priest interceding for those who had hounded Him to His death. Then as a King, promising a dying thief a place in His Kingdom. Next as a son remembering His Mother, who had watched His life unfolding as the years went by, and now was watching such an end as she had never dreamed.

Divine Fellowship.

There came the hours of silence, filled with an agony that was unspeakable, in which the human heart of Christ was torn with agony unspeakable. On Him alone was the burden of the world's sin, and alone He bore it. Then came the bitter cry, "My God, why didst Thou forsake Me!" But the Divine Fellowship was unbroken—it was still My God.

When at first He had been offered the draught, which would have dulled His senses He had refused. Now He cried aloud for something to quench His raging thirst. The main battle was over. He was within sight of the end. Then there came the cry of triumph, "It is finished." "I have seen it through."

In the sight of men, His life had been a failure, but in the light of history we can see how right He was. Taking God with one hand and man with the other, across the bridge of His broken Body, He had opened a new way for all humanity to the land of life. "Father, into Thy hands I commend My Spirit," and for that end of life may we pray. (Continued on previous column)

matic Company. I don't know of any other people who could have been more keenly interested in knowing that other people knew how interested they were in people who were interested in anti-aircraft guns. (Laughter). We could raise an army of Voluntary Volunteers here with far less effort than Major Manners has expended on his A. S. C. Cadre, but he happens to know the names and addresses of his men. Our great Voluntary Army lives in the clouds and until Hongkong wakes from its dreamland of fancied security I see no hope of it coming down to earth.

Tribute to Members of Other Nationalities.

To those public-spirited gentlemen of other nationalities who have come forward in such gratifying numbers to assist in the defence of this Colony, to care for its essential services and to maintain transport and supplies in any state of emergency we can have no other feeling but gratitude, (applause). Theirs is a gesture of friendship and service that I think the Volunteers will not lightly forget—especially the "unfortunate devils" that in times of emergency have to do their work all day and muck about in motor cars all night, as many have had to do on occasions within the last few years. (Applause) I have read that the action of our foreign friends is greatly appreciated by the British residents of Hong Kong. As a British resident myself I will go further than that and say that most of us are so tickled to death that we have highly resolved that when we leave Hong Kong and settle in Scandinavia or somewhere the very latest spirit of public service that burns so brightly within us will assuredly assert itself in some similar form of reciprocity. (Laughter).

Major Manners, we congratulate you most heartily on what you have accomplished. We hope and believe that the splendid spirit of good fellowship and good service that rules in the unit you command will preserve and strengthen it to the advantage of the Defence Corps and to the better comfort in time of emergency of the great and common citizen community of common citizens like myself who firmly believe with Doctor Johnson that patriotism is the last resort of a scoundrel. (Laughter and applause). Gentlemen, I ask you to drink to the continued prosperity of the A.S.C. Cadre of the Defence Corps. (Applause).

LT. F. Bunje replying to this toast expressed the hope that by the next annual dinner the number will have increased to 200. (Applause).

Major Manners.

Major C. M. Manners in welcoming the new members said Mr. Southern, Colonel Bird, Gentlemen, it is my pleasant duty to-night to welcome amongst us 42 new members of the Cadre; 36 of these new members, as you will have noticed from last week's orders, represent the German, Scandinavian, Dutch and Swiss communities of the Colony, and on your behalf I extend them a hearty welcome to the unit. (Applause).

Local and General

The M.O.H. return for Wednesday shows only one case—of meningitis. This was the second day in succession in which no case of small-pox was notified.

To-day is Good Friday, when the staff enjoys a holiday, and the Daily Press will not be published on Saturday. Our next issue will be on Monday, April 17.

The French violinist, Mlle. Maryse Hiltz, who is on a flight from Paris Shanghai, arrived here at 6.10 p.m. yesterday, having left Hanoi at 11.30 a.m. The flight was uneventful, but low clouds hampered visibility.

A British passport issued in June last year to George Henry Gilbert of Sydney, New South Wales, was picked up in the Wanchai District recently, and can be had on application to the Central Police Station.

Convicted on two charges of using grappling irons for lifting articles out of the harbour and with failing to stop when called, upon to do so by the Police, the master of a junk was fined $15 by Commander Newell at the Marine Court yesterday.

For the theft of three lbs. of solder from the China Can Company, an employee was fined $30 by Mr. Schofield at Central Magistrate's Court yesterday. It was stated that up till the day of arrest the employee was not searched before

On taking over the reorganisation of the Cadre last year, I realised that the personnel required to fulfil the important role allotted to us could not possibly be recruited from the available British residents of the Colony, bearing in mind the fact that our recruiting activities must be confined to men not eligible for service in the active units of the Corps. Realising, however, the large number of foreign residents whose keenness to assist in any emergency in the Colony had been repeatedly shown, I approached the three gentlemen who now constitute our Liaison Officers with a view to ascertaining whether their respective countrymen would consider enlistment in this unit if the necessary authorities were obtained. The response was immediate and gratifying, and as soon as the approval of the Secretary of State had been obtained recruitment of these gentlemen commenced. The result you have before you to-night, in this valuable addition to our potential strength, and once again on your behalf I welcome them to our ranks. I would like to make it quite clear to any prospective recruits that we are a non-combatant unit, and as far as the personnel other than British is concerned due consideration will be given at all times to their national status in relation to any emergency.

Maintain Essential Services.

We are organized to maintain essential services and assist in preserving good order in the Colony, and while I am sure there is no one here to-night who would venture to predict the full extent of the duties we may be called upon to perform we can at least be sure that preserving good order does not mean expelling enemy forces from Tai Mo Shan. I understand most mothers when giving advice to daughters before marriage state definitely that the best way to preserve peace and good order in the household is to "feed the brute," and that, in a much bigger way of course, will undoubtedly be one of our main jobs.

At our recent lecture, Captain de la Biere outlined some of our jobs of work if called on to function with the Royal Army Service Corps; these tasks as laid down in the regulation manuals appear very formidable, but when we get down to brass tacks we shall find I think that we are fully capable of tackling any proposition of whatever dimensions and successfully completing the job. General Borrett at the Annual Inspection of the Corps said "The part the Defence Corps has to play in the protection of this Colony is one of great importance, and is one that cannot be played by a man who only joins up at the moment of crisis." This is as true of the Cadre as it is of the Corps in general; we want an organization which can function "tout suite" on the need arising, and every man who joins us now helps towards that organization.

Duties on Mobilisation.

I have on many occasions been asked by members of the Cadre what their particular duties would be on mobilisation. These questions at the moment are difficult to answer; the finest craftsmen cannot complete a job without the requisite tools, and the officers of your unit cannot complete the organization laid down, and definitely detail the men assigned to the various branches of our work, without the necessary men. The job confronting us is like trying to complete a jig saw puzzle with only about one third of the pieces. To complete our particular puzzle and form it into a harmonious whole we require a total strength of 200 Officers and men, of which not less than 60 per cent. must be British; our present strength of 100 is less than half this number, and I look to every member to do his own spot of recruiting and so help to bring the Cadre up to the requisite strength, so fashioning a tool which will not turn in our hands when used on the job.

I will not detain you any longer. I would like to assure our Colonel that he has at his disposal a body of men, capable as he can see for himself to-night, of shifting large quantities of liquid and supplies in a short space of time and who will do their job when called on; to this end every man will pull his weight, and with the assistance of those members whom we welcome to-night will if necessary "carry on" indefinitely.

Gentlemen, I ask you to rise and drink the health of "Our New Members." (Applause).

The toast of "Our Guests" was proposed by Lt. C. Blaker to which the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, replied as follows:—

Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern.

"I rise on behalf of the guests to express our very hearty thanks for your hospitality here this evening, and particularly to thank Mr. Blaker for his charming presentation of this toast and you, gentlemen, for the enthusiastic way in which you have endorsed it."

There are, gentlemen, people who object, and not always good naturedly, to the holding of these convivial gatherings, and the objections usually come from those who would have liked to be present had they only been invited. They maintain that there is no point in gathering together to eat and drink and that the work of the world is not furthered in that way. They should read their Boswell and remember the words of the great Doctor Johnson who declared that the object of dinner parties is to eat and drink together and to promote kindness. (Laughter).

Now surely there is every reason why the A.S.C. should eat and drink together for much of their work is concerned with seeing that the units to which they are attached have the wherewithal to eat and drink. They are therefore a very vital complement to the rest of the forces and it is up to the A.S.C. to see that the stomach on which we know every army marches is adequately supplied for its purposes.

Must Be Fed.

It was I think Marlborough who said that no soldier could fight unless he was properly fed on beef and beer. Your guests to-night have now had practical experience of the efficiency of the A.S.C. Cadre in supplying the necessary beef and beer and we tender you our sincere appreciation of your efforts and our very best thanks. (Applause).

As for the kindness to which Dr. Johnson referred we have that here too to-night. Even if it had not existed before, our excellent meal would have promoted it. The A.S.C. Cadre is the most cosmopolitan of all the companies in the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps a company banded together regardless of nationality to assist in the defence of the Colony in which they live. It is a unique company of which your capable Company Commander Major Manners can well be proud. We have in Major Manners a man of wide experience in peace and war, a man of rare sympathy who has lived in many lands and among many people, the very man in fact to command a cosmopolitan company.

Training together as you do you will inevitably get to know one another better and as to understand everything is to forgive everything you will be helping to obliterate old misunderstandings, to forge new friendships and in your small way to hasten the millennium. (Applause).

Best Way to World Security.

The best way to world security is co-operation in defence, and defence is the keynote of your service, and I congratulate Major Manners and his Officers on the great success which has attended their efforts to interest all nationalities in the defence of the land in which they live and move and have their being. As you are all aware, no one, and least of all the promoters of this Company, would wish anyone to forsake his allegiance to his own country, but while preserving that allegiance to the full the non-British members of the Cadre can still play a part in maintaining the security of the land of their adoption. This interest, under the inspiration of your Company Commander has resulted in the formation of our International A.S.C. Cadre. I should like to offer my heartiest congratulations to all who have contributed to the success of the A.S.C. scheme and especially to express the appreciation felt by the Government and by the British Community generally for the public spirit evinced by the non-British members who have resisted the temptation in this enervating climate to sit back in their chairs and playing the part of Gallo say that the security of their temporary home is no concern of theirs.

Major Manners and Gentlemen, on behalf of my fellow guests I thank you again for your hospitality, and wish the A.S.C. Cadre a very successful future of usefulness to the Colony. (Applause).

leaving the premises, but owing to recent petty larcenies this course was adopted.

For assaulting a ricksha coolie for no apparent reason at all, a mechanic was fined $5 by Mr. Wynne-Jones at Central Magistrate's Court yesterday. It was stated that the defendant was riding a bicycle and when passing the ricksha pushed the shafts down sharply. He then turned round, alighted from the cycle and punched the coolie three times in the chest.

Muiwan, the peaceful village on Lima Island was the scene of an attack by a number of pirate junks on Wednesday night. The meagre news was conveyed to Gap Rock early yesterday morning by junk fishermen who escaped in their craft. Muiwan is fifteen miles due south of Gap Rock and is in Chinese territory, outside British jurisdiction.

On receiving a report that a robbery with violence occurred at No. 7, On Lan Street, second floor, at midnight on April 11, a police party headed by Detective Sub-Inspectors J. O. S. Fender and M. Murphy, acting on information, raided a hut in Wanchai on Wednesday night.

A man named Mui Ying was arrested with the stolen property and money in possession. It was stated during the robbery two women were bound and gagged by the two men, and jewellery and money to the extent of $250 was taken.

ASTONISHING DEVELOPMENT IN MOSCOW TRIAL

MACDONALD REPUDIATES HIS PLEA OF 'GUILTY'

INDICTMENT AND STATEMENT DENOUNCED

Turning Of Tables Causes Microphones To "Break Down"

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Moscow, April 13.

AN ASTONISHING DEVELOPMENT OCCURRED SHORTLY AFTER THE RE-OPENING OF THE TRIAL AT 10 A.M., WHEN MACDONALD, SPEAKING IN ENGLISH AND IN A LOUD VOICE, REPUDIATED YESTERDAY'S PLEA OF "GUILTY."

HE DECLARED THAT HE DID NOT TELL SOKOLOV TO COMMIT SABOTAGE.

THE PROSECUTOR ASKED, WHY DID YOU SAY SO IN THE INDICTMENT?

MACDONALD REPLIED THAT HE CONSIDERED IT CONVENIENT UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES AND AS NO TRANSLATION OF MY STATEMENT WAS MADE IN MY PRESENCE I ADMITTED I WAS "GUILTY" YESTERDAY.

THE PROSECUTOR THEN ASKED, DO YOU SAY SO TO-DAY?

MACDONALD, NO I AM ACTUALLY "NOT GUILTY."

THE COURT WAS ONLY HALF FULL TO-DAY IN VIEW OF IT BEING A FULL WORKING DAY. MANY OF THE AUDIENCE CARRIED COPIES OF THE IZVESTIA AND PRAVDA CONTAINING TWO PAGES OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

MACDONALD'S DENIAL

MACDONALD DENIED THAT HE PAID SOKOLOV FOR INFORMATION, BUT ADMITTED HE PAID GUSEV AND OTHERS 2,500 ROUBLES FOR OVERTIME PARTLY FROM THE FIRM'S MONEY AND PARTLY FROM HIS OWN POCKET.

VYSHINSKY, THE PROSECUTOR, SHOWED MACDONALD THAT HE HAD WRITTEN IN HIS OWN HANDWRITING THAT HE HAD RECEIVED SECRET INFORMATION FROM SOKOLOV.

WHEN ASKED, WHY WRITE THAT IF YOU DENIED IT TO-DAY? MACDONALD REPLIED THAT UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES IT WAS MORE CONVENIENT TO WRITE THAT TESTIMONY.

A PROFOUND SENSATION

A MOST-PROFOUND SENSATION WAS CAUSED BY MACDONALD'S TESTIMONY AND THE SUDDEN TURNING OF THE TABLES, MIDST WHICH THE MICROPHONES "BROKE DOWN" THEREFORE NOT ALL THE PUBLIC ARE ABLE TO UNDERSTAND WHAT HAPPENED.

THE INTERPRETER WAS FREQUENTLY CALLED TO ORDER TO GET THE EXACT SHADES OF MEANING OF MACDONALD'S TESTIMONY WHICH MOMENTARILY CONFUSED THE PROSECUTION.

STANDING UPRIGHT, DESPITE HIS LAME LEFT LEG, MACDONALD DENOUNCED IN COOL CALCULATED TONES THE STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN BOTH THE INDICTMENT AND HIS WRITTEN STATEMENT.

A BREEZE IN COURT

After twenty minutes adjournment, a breeze occurred between Mr. Thornton and M. Vyshinsky.

Mr. Thornton denied the espionage allegations and said he knew everything from working in the vicinity of Military areas.

M. Vyshinsky, so you heard aeroplane engines?

Mr. Thornton, sarcastically, yes, aeroplane do make a noise.

When asked why he had given untrue evidence, Mr. Thornton answered, because I lost my nerve and the serious charges heavily impressed me.

Judge Ulrich, when did your nerve return?

Mr. Thornton, on the evening of April 4, when I was released.

A spectator whispered to Reuter's representative do you realise that the trial is costing the Soviet twenty-five millions, while the bribes mentioned would only buy a few typewriters?

NO CONNECTION WITH GOVERNMENT

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

London, April 13.

In the House of Commons Sir John Simon announced in view of the charges against the British employees of Metropolitan Vickers in Moscow none had ever been employed directly or indirectly in connection with the British Intelligence Service, nor had they ever supplied any information.

"Lion's Tail Twisted."

Moscow, April 12.

The morning's proceedings concluded following MacDonald's plea of "Guilty."

On hearing the admission, a Soviet spectator said to one of Reuter's correspondents, "It seems that the Russian bear has twisted the lion's tail."

Received Propositions.

At the resumption of the Moscow trial, yesterday afternoon, M. Gusev, a red-haired, nervous-voiced man, was called as first witness.

The prisoners listened with rapt attention as the Prosecutor M. Vyshinsky, shot out staccato questions at Gusev.

Witness gave evidence that he had belonged to the "White Army" and had started counter-revolutionary work in 1920, "when I met the Metropolitan Vickers employees," he said.

He added that he had received propositions from MacDonald to supply details of plant, especially that of military departments, and the type of shells manufactured.

"In My Own Interests."

Amid a dramatic silence, the Prosecutor then called on MacDonald and asked him, "Is that what Gusev has said about your acquaintances true?"

MacDonald replied, "Yes, we were good friends in 1930."

"Why did you ask him for information?" asked the Prosecutor.

"In my own interests," MacDonald replied in collected tones.

This calm reply evoked a sensation in the Court and the Judge was forced to ring the bell for silence.

Gusev then embarked on a detailed confession of how he wrecked machinery and obtained information.

Directed Against Army.

Gusev declared that he put metal in the machinery at Zlatoust, and MacDonald co-operated in the plan. MacDonald was again called, and said, "Yes, that is true." He also admitted that he gave Gusev 3,500 roubles.

Gusev said that he tried to slow down the production of the plant at Zlatoust by sabotage. MacDonald denied all knowledge of that.

Gusev said that all sabotaging was directed against the efficiency of the Soviet army, and added that when he was at other stations he helped various workers to get into touch with MacDonald, who recommended him to Thornton as a man from whom they could get information.

During the latter evidence, Thornton fumbled angrily with his copy of the indictment.

Signed Secret Names.

Gusev said that when MacDonald left Zlatoust he exchanged letters signed with secret names, through a woman named Riabova.

MacDonald had also told the Metropolitan Vickers secretary, Mademoiselle Kutuzova, to send instructions to Gusev under a fictitious name.

Replying to the Assistant Prosecutor, MacDonald, with downcast eyes, declared that he wrote Gusev, but on the firm's business and not in order to get information.

Mountain Meeting.

The prosecution then endeavoured to prove that Thornton was aware that Gusev was carrying on espionage under the direction of MacDonald.

Thornton was then called and admitted meeting Gusev at a station buffet in the Ural Mountains. He said that he was aware that Gusev gave MacDonald information concerning the firm's business but he was not aware that there was any question of espionage.

Thornton added, "I do not know what you mean by espionage."

Judge: "It is a bad word."

Thornton's Denial.

The Prosecutor then read passages from Thornton's alleged depositions, in which he admitted cognisance of the espionage activities.

"Is that true?" asked Vyshinsky. Thornton paused and deliberated, and then said loudly and clearly, "No."

Vyshinsky: "Then why did you admit it on March 15?"

"I was nervous," replied Thornton.

Vyshinsky: "Did they apply third degree methods?" Did you suffer?"

Thornton: "No."

The court then adjourned and the prisoners left the court together, only MacDonald showing signs of fatigue.

ASSISTING BRITISH UNEMPLOYED

MEASURE TO INSURE PROTECTION

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

Rome, Apr. 12.

THE Minister of Health, Sir Hilton Young, announced in the House of Commons yesterday, that before the end of this session, the Government would introduce a Bill dealing, on a National basis, with the problem of assistance for those who were in need of assistance and including those who had insured against unemployment but who were no longer so insured.

Stating that he could not reveal the contents of the Bill Sir Hilton Young indicated its broad outlines.

The essence was that they had to provide for large numbers seeking work but who were unable to find it and were faced with disheartening prospects.

The Committee gave the deteriorating effects of idleness, and, as far as possible, it would be the primary purpose of the Bill to make a close connection between the work of giving help and the work of promoting the physical and mental welfare of the unemployed by training, occupation and recreation.

The Bill would establish a measure of National control. It would re-distribute the duties and functions of the local authorities and the central Government in relation to assistance from public funds, whether those of local authorities or the funds of the Exchequer.

One of the bases of this re-distribution of responsibility between local authority and central Government would be that the central Government would accept the responsibility, both administrative and financial for assisting all able-bodied unemployed who needed assistance.

The Government had adopted an amendment to commit the Minister accepting responsibility for assistance to all able-bodied unemployed under various of ages, with such readjustments in financial relations between the Exchequer and the local authorities as is reasonable, having regard to the necessities of distressed areas.

THE WASHINGTON PARLEYS

11 NATIONS INVITED BY MR. ROOSEVELT

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

WASHINGTON, Apr. 13.

FOLLOWING the reports of discussions among some nations owing to their not having received invitations to participate in the Washington conversations, the State Department yesterday sent a message to 11 States which will not be personally represented, inviting them to exchange views through diplomatic channels.

WORLD BOYCOTT OF JAPAN

ADVOCATED BY BRITISH M.P.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

A WORLD boycott of Japanese goods was advocated by Mr. Atlee in the House of Commons for discussion by Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Roosevelt at Washington, during the course of a debate on foreign affairs. He declared that unless the world took a strong line regarding the Sino-Japanese dispute it would cut at the roots of disarmament.

Mr. Atlee added that some took the line that the trouble was all over now and Japan, like a bonfire, should be allowed to go on and that it would be more peaceful for the rest of the world.

That was a profound mistake. It did not matter seizing this and that province, but it is flouting the whole basis of the League.

FURTHER POWER FOR MR. ROOSEVELT

MANDATE TO EXPAND CURRENCY

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

WASHINGTON, Apr. 13.

POWER to expand the currency without asking for mandate will be given Mr. Roosevelt by an amendment to the Farm Bill submitted by Senator Thomas. It is proposed this will be achieved by issuing Federal Reserve notes and fixing the ratio between silver and gold and permitting a free coinage of silver in that ratio or fixing the gold content for the dollar.

The success of the first specific move will include inflationary proposals. The Bill is considered doubtful in view of hints that Mr. Roosevelt is opposed to the outright expansion of currency. Even should the amendment be enacted the inflationary action will be left entirely in Mr. Roosevelt's hands.

WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

NOT LIKELY TO BE A SUCCESS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

MR. MACDONALD who is confining himself to his forthcoming visit to Washington, denied there was any shadow of foundation in the reports that agreement had been reached on debts, nor would a provisional agreement be reached.

No great success is likely from the World Economic Conference unless a large part of the international trade obstructions are removed.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS

Only five cases are down for the April sessions which commenced at the Supreme Court on Tuesday. Cases to be heard before Mr. Justice Wood, sitting, Chief Justice, are as follows: Kwok Ping, breach of deportation order; Ho Chong, breach of deportation order; Yip Sam, robbery with violence and assault.

The cases before the Pui Hing, Mr. R. E. Lindell, are: Li Hing, on three counts, one of robbery by two or more and two counts of forcible taking of a person with intent to procure a ransom; Hung Ping Wo, robbery by two or more.

U.S. TRADE DOLLAR VALUE

Stainer Gifford Convicted of False Pretences

MORE SILVER IN AMERICAN THAN HONGKONG DOLLARS!

A fine of $100 with the alternative of two months' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Schofield at Central Magistracy yesterday on Stainer Gifford, 20, who was charged with obtaining $130 local currency by falsely pretending that in exchanging a U.S. trade dollar he demanded $3.50 local currency for every $1 to which he was entitled.

The defendant was described by Detective Sergeant Fitches, who prosecuted, as a Chinese although he had an English name. His Chinese name was Wong Siu Cheong, but the defendant looked like a Eurasian.

Outlining the facts of the case, Sergeant Fitches said the complainant was a car driver at the Man Woo Garage of 201, Hennessy Road. On the morning of April 6 about 12.30 a.m. defendant went to the Garage and spoke to the complainant in Pidgin English. He said he wanted to hire a car to take him to Star Ferry and asked the complainant the cost for it. The complainant said $1 whereupon the defendant took out several U.S. trade dollars, at the same time saying he had no Hong Kong money. He told the complainant, it was alleged, that a U.S. trade dollar was worth $3.50 in local currency, and asked the complainant to give him back $3.50. The complainant, however, knew something about U.S. trade dollars and said in Chinese (more to himself than to the defendant as he thought the defendant did not understand Chinese) that it was not worth so much. The defendant replied "No, No," and complainant then knew that he understood Chinese, and asked him what he meant by speaking English when he knew Chinese.

The defendant then took back the dollar and walked out of the garage. A Chinese constable happened to pass by, and the complainant told him what had happened, in consequence of which the defendant was arrested.

When taken to the Police station, defendant was asked where he had got the dollars. Defendant was holding five in his hand at the time, and when asked if he had any more in his pocket, he replied in the negative. Sergeant Fitches then asked a man to search him whereupon the defendant produced an other eight U.S. trade dollars, making a total of thirteen. Defendant then told Sergeant Fitches that he had obtained them from a money changer at 36, Queen's Road Central. He was later taken to the money changer who said that the defendant bought the dollars the previous night at an exchange of $1.10 local currency each. He also said the defendant had purchased U.S. trade dollars from him on several occasions.

Evidence was then given in support of Sergeant Fitches' statement, after which defendant elected to give evidence in the witness-box on his own behalf.

Defendant's Story.

He stated that he was living at 21, Cedar Street, Shamshuipo and had been working in Canton for about ten months. He came down to Hong Kong on March 28 on a month's leave.

On the night in question he went to Wanchai to meet a friend, who, however, did not turn up. After waiting till about half past twelve, he went to the Man Woo Garage and asked the complainant the cost of a motor ride to Star Ferry. He replied $1 and witness then produced a U.S. trade dollar saying that it was equivalent to local currency. Complainant shook his head and said in pidgin, English that it was worth less than a local dollar. Witness then took it back and walked out of the garage. After walking for a while, he was stopped by a Chinese constable who accused him of using false money. He was then taken to the police station where he got the dollars and tried to force him (witness) to say that he had obtained them from Shanghai. Witness told him that he had obtained them from a money-changer at 36, Queen's Road Central, and later he was taken to the shop to prove it.

More Silver in U.S. Dollars!

Asked by his Worship as to why he purchased the U.S. trade dollars witness replied that he wanted to melt them into silver to make silverware. He understood that U.S. trade dollar contained 90 per cent of silver whereas the local dollar contained only about 60 per cent.

In reply to Sergeant Fitches, witness said the firm he worked for in Canton was Messrs. Cho Brothers of Missions Building, West Bund. He worked there as a travelling salesman at a salary of $80 a month. Witness added that Messrs. Cho Brothers were insurance agents.

Sergeant Fitches: You said you are a travelling salesman and Messrs. Cho Brothers are insurance agents what do you have to sell in insurance?

Witness: I worked in the office. I made a mistake in saying I worked there as a travelling salesman.

His Worship: Be careful of what you say in the box.

When asked if the Police could verify from the Company what he had said, witness stated that he had already left the Company.

His Worship: But you said you were on a month's leave. Another lie.

Continuing, witness said that his father was a Chinese surnamed Wong, and that the name "Gifford" was given to him by his father when he was a child.

His Worship, convicted the defendant, and asked Sergeant Fitches if anything was known of him.

Sergeant Fitches: No criminal record.

His Worship: I suppose he has friends here?

Sergeant Fitches: He has a mother and a sister, but they will have nothing to do with him nor will his friends. He has had several chances and been advised to leave the Colony on several occasions but he preferred to remain here.

GEN. SHANGCHEN'S ORDERS

TROOPS MUST RECAPTURE LENGKOW

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, April 13.

THE North China fighting situation continues to be tense with the Japanese continuing their aerial bombing operations. Large Chinese reinforcements have arrived and they are ready for a determined counter-attack.

According to Chinese information, General Shang Chen has given his troops twenty-four hours to recapture Lengchow Pass. This order followed a conference of the Chinese commander at the front, which was held on General Shang Chen's special train.

The Chinese are preparing for a counter-attack as their reinforcements have arrived in large numbers.

Other reports state that the Japanese and Manchukuo troops are attacking the Chinese position and Tangb near Haiyang, the gunfire, which is described as exceedingly heavy, being plainly audible in Chinwangtao.

In the meantime, hundreds of refugees are reported to be arriving in Peitaho from Haiyang where serious fighting is believed to be progressing, but which town is declared to be still in the hands of the Chinese forces.

It is also reported that the Japanese aeroplanes bombed the iron bridge across the Luan River and did heavy damage to it. Chinese reports state that yesterday thirty Japanese aeroplanes severely bombed the area south of Lengchow, doing enormous damage.

The Japanese bombing operations appears to be rapidly spreading.

As Chen Tu Hsin is one of the most important Chinese Communist leaders, the trial will be followed with great interest.

According to Chinese reports, the indictment against Chen Tu Hsin has been narrowed down to the spreading of Communist propaganda with the object of endangering the Republic.

TWO HUNDRED CHINESE KILLED

BY JAPANESE NEAR CHINWANGTAO

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, Apr. 13.

TWO hundred Chinese were killed to-day in the vicinity of Chinwangtao, according to an official communique which states that after pouring a thousand shells on to the Chinese positions the Japanese attacked with infantry. The fighting was continuing up to an early hour this afternoon, the time when the latest reports were despatched.

A communique from the Lengchow front declares that Chinese troops attacked the Japanese near Chien-changying, the Chinese gaining some territory which they are holding.

TRIAL OF COMMUNISTS TO BEGIN AT NANKING TO-DAY

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, April 12.

THE trial of Chen Tu Hsin, alleged leader of the Trotsky Group in China and ten other important Chinese Communists, who were arrested in Shanghai some time ago, will open here to-morrow.

As Chen Tu Hsin is one of the most important Chinese Communist leaders, the trial will be followed with great interest.

According to Chinese reports, the indictment against Chen Tu Hsin has been narrowed down to the spreading of Communist propaganda with the object of endangering the Republic.

LO WEN-KAN ORDERED COMPLETE REST

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, April 12.

IT is learned that Dr. Lo Wen Kan's eye trouble has taken a turn for the worse.

The doctor in attendance has prescribed a complete rest for the Foreign Minister in order to relieve mental strain which was the principle cause for his present condition.

Dr. Lo Wen Kan has taken up residence in the University Hospital.

CHINA AND INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, April 12.

A SPOKESMAN of the Ministry of Industry intimated that China will be submitting at the forthcoming International Labour Conference a proposal requiring foreign factories in China to submit to Chinese factory regulations and inspections by authorised Government agents.

FINANCE MINISTER MAY GO TO WASHINGTON

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, April 12.

MR. WANG CHING WEI, Chairman of the Executive Yuan, emphasised that the Central Government has not yet made up its mind regarding the choice of a Chinese representative to the Washington discussions.

Mr. Wang said that because most dignitaries participating in these discussions are either Premiers or ex-Premiers of their respective countries, the Government has considered Mr. T. V. Soong, as the Finance Minister and Vice-President of the Executive Yuan, the most appropriate person to represent China. Mr. Wang added that it is still uncertain whether Mr. Soong will be able to attend in view of the urgency of China's financial affairs during her national crisis.

HOLIDAY FOOTBALL

Sunday Herald and Lai Wah Cup Finals

CHINESE TO OPPOSE ENGLAND AND CIVILIANS

The main attraction in the week-end football programme will be the Sunday Herald Cup final between England and China on the Club ground on Saturday. The match should be a needle one as although on paper the English team, which has already been selected, looks the better of the two, they will undoubtedly lack the most important factors in football, combination and understanding, as the eleven have never played together as a team before. Every player who has been chosen to represent England is worthy of the choice, but individualism does not always win matches.

China will in all probability be represented by the whole of the South China eleven, and should that be the case they will have that advantage over England as their perfect understanding, and good combination are considered to be the best of any team in the Colony.

The most notable positional change in the English side is that of Pardoe, the Interport captain, who will play at right half instead of at his usual position, centre-half, which will be taken over by Shirras, an ex-schoolboy international. However, Pardoe's teammates, Gough and Bryant are in the right flank of the attack, and with himself in the right half position, it will probably form the most dangerous combination of the English side.

On Monday, another final will also be decided, that of the Lai Wah Cup Competition. The Chinese will again figure, but this time their opponents are the Civilians. The result of this match will depend more or less on that of the Sunday Herald Final. Should China beat England, they will be favoured to defeat the Civilians, as England's team is considered much stronger than the Civilians. Unfortunately for the Civilians, A. V. Gosano, the Colony's star-centre-forward who was selected to lead them, has intimated that he will not be able to play, and his place will probably be filled by Johnson of the Police. However, it is almost certain the Chinese will conquer at least one of their opponents, if not both, and it will be a very big surprise if they fail.

Only one match in the First Division is down for decision tomorrow. The Club de Recreio will meet St. Joseph's at King's Park, and the former by virtue of their fine form shown during the last few matches, is favoured to win. This match will probably be one of the hardest played this season, as besides being evenly-matched, great rivalry has been shown by these two teams, as some of the St. Joseph's players, like the Gosano brothers, formerly played for the Recreio.

THE PROGRAMME.

The following is the programme:

Saturday.

Sunday Herald Cup Final: England v. China (Club ground, 4.30 p.m.).

Division I (kick-off, 4.30 p.m.). St. Joseph's v. Recreio, at King's Park.

Division II—Navy v. H.K.F.C., at Kowloon. Kick-off 3 p.m.

Kowloon v. Eastern, at Kowloon. Kick-off, 4.30 p.m.

Lincoln v. South China, at Chatham Road. Kick-off, 4.30 p.m.

Division III—B.A.S.C. v. R.E. at Sookunpo. Kick-off, 3 p.m.

Border v. R.A.F., at Sookunpo. Kick-off, 4.30 p.m.

Lincoln v. R.E., at Chatham Road. Kick-off, 3 p.m.

Monday.

Lai Wah Cup Final: Civilians v. Chinese (Club ground, 4.30 p.m.).

The Teams.

The following have been selected to represent England against China in the Sunday Herald Cup final on Saturday.

Conley (R.A.), Allen (R.A.) and S. Strange (Club Capt. Pardoe (R.A.), Shirras (Navy) and Bliss (Kowloon), Gough (R.A.), Bryant (R.A.), Langmaid (Navy), Ridley (Lincoln) and L. Hoggard (Lincoln).

Reserves.—Ash (Lincoln), Thomas (Navy), E. Strange (Club), C. Pile (Police) and Blake (Kowloon).

Lai Wah Cup.

The following team, representing the Civilians, has been chosen to meet the Chinese in the final of the Lai Wah Cup on Monday.

Margues B. and A. V. Gosano (St. Joseph's), Martin, S. Strange (Club), Bliss (Kowloon), Chan (Navy), Langmaid (Navy), Ridley (Lincoln) and L. Hoggard (Lincoln).

EASTER RACING PROPECTS

New Bridge Handicap.

This five furlong sprint for "A" Class will see Polar Star opposed to some of the best sprinters in the Australian class. Rosy Morn holds the record for the distance while Wotin and City of Brisbane are two candidates which should be able to make things hum. Portia is not likely to go out here, though if she is sent out, there is every prospect of her coming off with flying colours.

Amoy Stakes.

It is time Jack O'Lantern won something and when he is sent out in the Amoy Stakes over six furlongs he will prove very hard to beat. Ta Peastie, Heather Leaf, Black Velvet and White Butterfly can all give him a race but Jack O'Lantern's chances appear to be the best.

Kongmoon Handicap.

The "E" Class event is over five furlongs only and Whoops, with 182 pounds to look after should win this race, if he can reproduce even a bit of his past form. Black Velvet may find the short distance to his liking and may redeem himself. The Crook carries top weight but in spite of this, might run into a place.

Kowloon Supplement

HONG KONG, April 14, 1933.

CRIME PREVENTION

In view of the prevalence of hold-ups in the New Territories and the frequent raiding of villages on the border, it is gratifying to hear that the Police are preparing an intensive campaign for the suppression of similar outbreaks. The series of robberies with violence and cases of abduction which have lately occurred in Kowloon and the villages in British territory, have given the authorities no little anxiety, for in spite of the dozens of police stations on the Mainland the Police have been unable to stem the wave of crime or to apprehend the majority of the offenders. Perhaps the only reliable way to prevent crime in the New Territories is to invest the village elders with authority to make arrests or act as informers; or, better still, to station a resident Chinese or Indian constable in each village, as is done at Home, and connect his dwelling with the nearest Police Station by private telephone. At the moment there are scores of villages and hamlets with no telephone communication whatsoever, and in order to report a crime the villagers have to walk several miles to the nearest Station. It is not necessary for each village to have a Station, but the cost of providing modest quarters, in addition to a cell and a telephone, for a resident constable, would not be excessive. At night all the main roads in the Territories should be patrolled by armed guards in motor cars and in motor cycles, whilst the lanes and footpaths could be patrolled by a bicycle squad. The prevention of border raids is a more difficult question, but one effective method would be to establish a series of small watch-houses, each one equipped with searchlights and Lewis guns and separated by distances of one mile along the frontier.

Nothing encourages crime more than a lack of vigilance and there is no question that the New Territories are policed in a very unsatisfactory manner. In the remote areas, especially beyond Sai Kung, there is not a policeman available within a radius of ten miles. In some of these distant villages the Police have actually not set foot for years, and there is no telephone or other form of communication, not even a road, it is not unlikely that hundreds of crimes, serious as well as petty ones, have been committed of which the authorities are unaware. It is not to be suggested that there is an insufficiency of Police Stations in the New Territories, but that there is a serious shortage of men to cope with so large an area. When any serious outbreak of crime occurs in these distant villages, reinforcements have to be rushed from Kowloon and even Hong Kong, and by the time they have arrived the trouble is usually over and the culprits have escaped. The Police might just as well be frank about the situation; at the present time they are quite unable to cope with the series of armed robberies and hold-ups which have lately terrorised the New Territories, since the widely-scattered Police Stations have no unified system to enable them to control crime in their area. The Government are incurring a grave liability if they fail to give the inhabitants of villages under their administration adequate protection against robbers and bandits. It is to be hoped that steps will be taken in the immediate future to amplify the Police strength in the rural districts and, by improving the communications, bring even the most distant villages within control.

A Refuge Of The Homeless

ORPHANS OF VICTORIA HOME AND THEIR HISTORIES

A Chinese Dickens would find rich material for pathos, tragedy and romance in the lives of some of the inmates of the Victoria Home and Orphanage, Kowloon. Few of these children, from the three-year old mites to the girls of fifteen and over, have not known the terrors of ill-treatment or neglect and in their eyes one can still observe the shadow of those days. Some bear upon their heads the scars inflicted by a bad-tempered mistress, others have had fingers put out of joint by torture, and not a few show the marks of constant beatings. One little mui-tai was bought by a woman when she was five years old with the intention of marrying her to her son when she was a few years older. Instead of receiving the honours of a bride-to-be, however, she was treated as a domestic slave and cruelly beaten. The cruelty of her mistress knew no bounds; one day she strapped the poor little mite to a beam, and left her swinging there for hours. Those barbarities were repeated every day until the S.C.A. got to hear of it and instituted proceedings which led to the punishment of the woman and the despatch of the child to the Victoria Home. Now she is happy, contented and well-fed, and looks the picture of healthy girlhood. Another infant in the Kindergarten class was found wandering on one of the wharves in Kowloon, where she had been abandoned by her mother. The Police searched house after house for several days, but were unable to trace her parents, so they handed her over to the S.C.A., who in turn arranged for her to be taken care of in the Home. She is six years old now and can say the Alphabet in English without making a single mistake, as well as counting up to a hundred.

There are two girls in the Home of mixed Chinese and African parentage and their history is as sad as any. Their father was born in Canton and when he was a little boy he was taken to South Africa, where he worked on the mines at Johannesburg. When he grew up he married an African woman and had two children. As time went on he prospered and, on reaching middle age, decided to return to China and see his relatives. So he collected all his savings and possessions together and, accompanied by his family, returned to Canton. To his surprise his relatives gave him a most unfriendly reception, partly because he was a Christian and partly because he had married a woman of another race. So, leaving his wife and children behind him, he returned to Africa and obtained work as before. For eight years he regularly sent money to his wife in China, but at the end of this period she suddenly ceased to hear from him, and, having no money and no friends, was reduced to such a pitiable state of poverty that she was obliged to get rid of her children. Happily the Christian mission to which she appealed for help took charge of the girls and sent them to the Home, where they are now as well cared for that they never want to leave.

A few of the girls are high-spirited and full of mischief and give Miss Jennings no little worry although the great majority are quiet, respectful and extremely well-behaved. During last summer, however, there was a temporary lack of occupation (owing to the holidays) which gave an opportunity for discontented spirits to disturb the peace. Eventually four girls ran away. Fortunately they were soon brought back by the Police. The ringleader had not long been sent to the Home by the Secretary of Chinese Affairs, and she was determined to return to her native place in Yunnan. Two days later nine other girls approached the Headmistress and demanded sundry impossible concessions, insisting that the S.C.A. would enforce the Headmistress to yield to them. The Secretary himself kindly came the same day, listened to their supposed grievances and thought, before he left, that all was settled. However, the teachers knew that the trouble was not all over and wisely advised the Headmistress to separate the affected ones. Next day the two ringleaders were sent to the Secretary of Chinese Affairs and after a week's detention in the Po Leung Kok returned in a very humble state of mind.

RUSSIAN EASTER

Special Service in Kowloon Church

Easter week is one of the most important festivals of the Russian Orthodox Greek Church and it is the desire of every devout Russian at this time of the year to attend as many services as possible. Unfortunately the Russian colony in Hong Kong, which numbers scarcely more than one hundred residents, have no church of their own or any other building suitable for the purpose. However, some of the senior members of the community approached the Rev. W. Walton Rogers, Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, and explained their difficulties to him. As a result, he very kindly consented to allow them the use of a room in the Church Hall. This has now been provided with an altar and decorated with candles and draperies, so that it resembles the interior of a small Russian Church. The services, which commenced yesterday, are being conducted by a Russian priest from the North, and, as they have been extraordinary, will be attended by local Russians and their families. A special Midnight Mass service was held yesterday, and there will be further services on Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

RUSSIAN TROOPS MASSING

NOT FAR FROM MANCHURI

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

HARBIN, Apr. 13.
REPORTS from White Russian
sources, hitherto unconfirmed,
state that Soviet troops are massing not far from Manchuria, from which place their movements can be observed.

Meanwhile a hopeful element appears in the railway dispute in a report asserting that the Soviet will agree to return the freight cars taken from the Chinese Eastern Railway, but not the locomotives.

Conditions on the Chinese Eastern Railway continue disturbed.
Bandits yesterday tore up the track and derailed a passenger train travelling towards the west near Tehpingling.

They then subjected the coaches to a fusillade of rifle fire, with the result that three were killed and many injured.

SQUATTERS AT HAPPY VALLEY

PROBLEM FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Prosecuting eight men and two women before Mr. Schofield at Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of using Crown land without a permit at Wongneichung, Mr.
R. E. Stott of the Public Works Department said that he had warned the squatters to clear off time and again, but on many occasions they had started re-erecting their huts. Even when poles were chopped, they tied them up and utilised them again. The trouble was not only at Seymour Road, but also at the rear of houses in Village Road. Plots there used to rent at $120 each, but owing to the nuisance caused by the presence of the squatters, the rents were only about $30.

His Worship suggested burning the demolished material.

Mr. Stott replied that the Sanitary Department had done that two years ago, but found they had done wrong. There was no power for such action.

His Worship suggested throwing the material into the sea, and this course was ordered.

A woman was discharged and the other defendants were each fined $5.

April 21: 7.30 to 8 p.m.—Dr. K.
Y. Lai will speak on General
Hygiene of the eyes in children.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK

Strikes Rock Off Cheung Chau Island

The Norwegian Steamer, Fjor-den, sank off Cheung Chau Island at 7.30 p.m. on Wednesday night
after striking a rock an hour earlier which badly holed the steamer.

The accident was due to heavy mist and strong current prevailing at the time.

The steamer was carrying a cargo of 43,000 piculs of rice and was loaded down to the plimsoll at the time. There were on board 32 Chinese and 5 Europeans, most of whom were members of the crew.

The ship was equipped with wireless and news of her plight was received in Hong Kong on Wednesday evening when No. 4
Police launch rushed to the scene,
to be followed later by the tugs
Edith, Kau Sing and Henry Kes-wick.

News gathered subsequently indicated that the ship struck a rock
just as darkness was gathering.
There was slight panic on board and the ship slowly but gradually heeled hard to port. She came to a dead stop after the impact and meanwhile lifeboats were lowered.

Two Aberdeen junks were fishing in the vicinity at the time and they immediately hastened to the rescue of the distressed steamer picking up a number of the people from the distressed steamer.

The Captain and the Chief Engineer were the last to leave the vessel and they were later picked up by the Police launch. They were found drifting in a small dinghy.

The rescued people were all brought to Hong Kong and the authorities quickly made arrangements for their accommodation at Boarding Houses in Kowloon. It is feared that all personal belongings were lost.

The Fjorden.

The Fjorden was a steel screw steamer of 1,625 tons
nett. She has had an interesting career since she was launched at the Schiffs. s.v. Shipbuilding Yards in Germany. Her original names were the Rhein-graf, Blumberg, and Rudolph, respectively, but after the outbreak of the Great War, she was seized by the United States, converted into a Coastal Defence vessel, and renamed the Beaufort. After the Great War she was sold to her present owners, the D/S A/S Fjorden, of Bergen, Norway.

The ship was constructed upon naval lines, and was one of the first merchant ships to have a cruiser stern.

The European officers were Captain Ormstedt, Oswald Bokke, Chief Engineer, Olaf Fulslov, Second
Engineer, Wilgot Johansen, Chief
Officer and Yngve Vanga, Second Officer.

Captain Ormstedt arrived in the East from Norway only a few months ago, taking command of the vessel last December.

University—Mr. Lee Fong—Representing the Kwangtung Government—General Chang Yan Mein
Representing Marshal Li Chung
Jen of Kwangsi.

The Italian Consul General in a short speech welcomed the Count and Countess Ciano whose return gave great pleasure to the Italian Community and all their numerous friends.

He thanked his guests and had particularly friendly remarks for Sir Robert Ho Tung whose name has been proposed by him lately to the Italian Government for the decoration of Commander of the Order of Saint Maurice and Lazare.

Mr. Wallem proposed the health of Mr. Hall, Norwegian Charge d'Affaires.

Count and Countess Ciano left on the Conte Rosso at 6 o'clock p.m.

MONEY AND MARKETS

FINANCIAL NOTES FROM LONDON

Cunard's Big Loss: Nestles Milk go Warily: Efficiency before Economy: Godfrey Phillips, Ltd.: The Ever-Ready Trust

(Special Air-Mail Service)

CUNARD £900,000 DOWN
London, March 28.—The directors of the Cunard Steam Ship Company's trading operations in 1932 resulted in a net loss of £927,391, which compares with a net loss of £333,204 for 1931. The report states that the decline in traffic across the Atlantic was confined to west-bound passages. East-bound traffic showed a slight increase. There was also a decline in first-class and cabin travel in both directions, but larger numbers were carried in the tourist and third classes.

The directors also report that the structure and machinery of the uncompleted liner on the Clyde, s.s. 634, are in perfect condition and that negotiations are in progress which may lead to a resumption of work upon it.

It is also reported that the partnership agreement with the White Star Line covering the joint operation and ownership of the Berengaria and the Majestic has been dissolved. The Cunard Company now owns the whole of the Berengaria and has no financial interest in the Majestic.

NESTLE MILK

Although net profits of the Nestlé and Anglo-Swiss Condensed Milk Co. for 1932 were only Frs. 4,400,236 below those of 1931 at Frs. 21,137,134, the Ordinary dividend is being reduced from Frs. 32 to Frs. 28 per share. In view of prevailing conditions, it is considered prudent to increase the allocation to statutory reserve from Frs. 1,100,000 to Frs. 1,600,000, and the forward balance is raised from Frs. 4,477,224 to Frs. 5,360,451. A first allocation of Frs. 900,000 is also made to a special relief fund to be used more especially for the benefit of the workmen. The transfer to pension and provident funds is unchanged at Frs. 1,500,000.

PAPER MILL EFFICIENCY

A temptation to which many industrial concerns succumb in periods of difficult trading is that of an indiscriminate pursuit of economy, resulting in the impairment of general efficiency. As was emphasised by Lord Camrose, presiding at the annual meeting yesterday, the board of Edward Lloyd Ltd. have rigorously avoided this temptation. As the chairman claimed, the achievement of an increase in profits of £33,550, in as difficult a period as 1932, is a tribute to the efficiency with which the mills were conducted.

It remains the fixed policy of the board of this company to maintain the mills at the highest standard of efficiency with the most modern equipment. Such policy, of course, involves a level in expenditure which less bold directorship might seek to curtail at such times as these, but it serves to maintain the company's reputation for the quality of its production, and holds the confidence of the customers. At any rate, the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and the 1932 profit increase, albeit from a low 1931 figure, sufficiently vindicates the policy pursued.

GODFREY PHILLIPS, LTD.

The recent increase in the dividend of Godfrey Phillips, Ltd., the tobacco manufacturers, from 5 per cent. for 1931 to 6 per cent. for 1932, is shown by the accounts to have been made in the face of a substantial decline in profits and at the expense of the net reserve appropriations. The profit and loss account is presented in greater detail than hitherto, but the surplus, after providing for interest and taxes, is returned at £68,134. The figure for the previous year on a comparable basis would seem to have been £137,774, a reduction of £69,640. The cost of the extra 1 per cent. dividend is £7,750. These figures total £47,400. Allowing for changes in the profit balance carried forward the net reserve appropriation this year is £24,194, against £23,644 last year, a reduction of £550. The discrepancy between the figure for the fall in profits and extra dividend cost and the figure representing the change in reserve appropriations is accounted for by a small increase in preference dividend requirements. This dividend programme of the directors may have been influenced by the fact that the losses on trading incidental to the building up of the Australian company's business have now been invested and that from July 1 last, the beginning of its financial year, satisfactory profits have been earned, also by the further fact that the recent adoption of improved mechanism has considerably cheapened the parent company's cost of manufacture. Last year the company had to bear the burden of the increased duty imposed in September, 1931, and the higher cost of materials resulting from the departure of Great Britain from the gold standard.

EVER-READY TRUST

CAPITAL

The Ever-Ready Trust is proposing to return to shareholders half of its capital. The trust recently disposed of the greater part of its main investment—namely, 400,000 out of a holding of 500,000 8 per cent. cumulative preference shares of £1 each in Lissen, Ltd. The directors have come to the conclusion that the present uncertain financial conditions throughout the world do not justify the investment of the large proceeds of that sale on trust company lines. They have therefore decided to return £200,000 to shareholders. This sum represents 10s. per £1 ordinary share and £50 for £100 deferred shares.

Apart from cash at the company's bankers, the investments of the trust now consist principally of 120,000 "Ever-Ready" (Great Britain) Ltd., ordinary shares, 100,000 Lissen 8 per cent. cumulative preference shares, £47,760 of 2½ per cent. Consols, £30,800 of 3 per cent. Conversion stock, and £25,500 2½ per cent. Conversion stock. The directors suggest that on a percentage basis to the reduced capital the future income of the company from these investments should show improvement over previous years. Last year the investment income was returned at £50,475, giving a percentage to the capital of £300,000 before providing for expenses and tax of approximately 5½ per cent. The actual rate of dividend was 6½ per cent.

Asia Lands, Limited, has received the following report from their New York correspondents, E. A. Pierce & Co.: "We think that the market today looked weaker than it really was. Barring unexpected news we would anticipate an advance before the close tomorrow. In the wheat market, heavy profit-taking in the immediate future depends on developments at Washington. Cotton: Profit-taking and Liverpool selling was absorbed by the domestic trade. Silver: The futures market reflected the decline in the 'Spot' prices."
